BREED: German Short Haired Pointer Mix (Gorgeous!)

Hi!!! My name is Tigger and I am homeless!!! Never in a million years did I think that I would be out on the street again but here I am! I found myself 8 years ago at the local Humane Society and was SOOO LUCKY to be adopted by a wonderful elderly woman when I was only 3 months old! My job was to be her constant companion and I was quite good at it!

She took great care of me but now I am homeless because she has moved into a retirement home that does not allow pets. She was heartbroken when she had to give me up which was just a week ago but I know she had to go. I am heartbroken too but I have lots of life to live and lots of love to give and I truly believe there is someone out there that needs a super, great companion!!!

I am a neutered boy, up to date on my shots, and just got my teeth cleaned. My mom says that I am a German Short Haired Pointer mix. I even have a big, beautiful brown heart in the fur on my side!

I get along with other dogs, am a little bit shy and I love women. I am very obedient (I really want to please) and my passion is hanging out with you! My mom did not take me on many walks when I was growing up so I would look at a walk as a huge treat, but I don't require them!!! I am good on a leash. I don't need a lot of exercise and I am perfectly housetrained as I have been a house dog since I was a puppy. I am a very good boy, super smart and some have said that I am good at reading minds. People that meet me fall in love once they see my charming personality. I love my toys, am well behaved, and love a belly rub. I can lay in my bed, hang out on the floor next to the office chair or the recliner while you watch TV. I am a "buddy" and that is what I know and have been for the past 8 years...ever since I was 3 months old and I am the best at being a "best friend". I don't know what a cat is but I am good with small dogs so I don't think a cat would bother me in the least. As far as children, I have not been around them but I have a great personality and totally easy going so I would most likely fall in love with them and they would love me.

I am looking for a family that wants a big, loveable guy that seldom barks and likes to please. If I sound perfect...well it is because I am!!!
